BISHOP WHELAN'S ADDRESS AT ST. PETER'S.

HEBREW SUNDAY-SCHOOL ANNIVER SARY.

DEDICATION OF A CHAPEL.

Baptisms and Conversions.

Sunday was celebrated in the Catholic and Episcopal churches as the second Sunday in

The day was bright and beautiful, and al the places of public worship in the city were well attended. We mention the following church notes of interest:

Episcopal Churches.

At the Monumental church, in the morn ing, the pastor, Rev. George Woodbridge D. D., officiated, preaching from Proverbs, 16th chapter, 2d verse, and administered the holy communion. The services in this church commence now in the afternoon at 41 o'clock. On Sunday afternoon the pastor delivered an eloquent sermon on the subject of temperance-a sermon which has created a profound impression not only among the members of the congregation of the Monumental church, but also many other persons in the city. The church was literally thronged in the afternoon, and there was not a vacant seat any where to be found. The music was unusually fine, and received complimentary mention from the many persons who were in attendance.

In this connection it may be remarked that a series of social meetings are about to be instituted by the Sunday-school teachers and the parents of the children attending the school. These meetings are to be held in the Sunday school-room on the firs Wednesday in each month, and will doubt less be productive of much good.

At St. John's church in the morning the pastor officiated, and in the afternoon at 3 clock the funeral of Mr. Thomas Nowlan took place. The remains were interred in Hollywood.

The Lenten services in the various Epis capal churches during the week are as follows: Every morning at St. Paul's at 7 o'clock; Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings at 9 o'clock at St. Mark's. Every afternoon at 4:45 as follows: Monday, at Grace; Tuesday, St. Mark's; Wednesday, Monumental; Thursday, St. John's; Friday,

St. James's. The services at St. Mark's church were o special interest, and there was an unusually large attendance. Among the clergymen in stein. the chancel were Rev. George Woodbridge, D. D., of the Monumental church; Rev. F cond from a fire in the basement, which was M. Baker, of Grace; Rev. T. G. Dashiell, of St. Mark's; Rev. H. S. Kepler ; Rev. Joshua Peterkin, D. D., of St. James's; and Rev. Henry Wall, D. D., of St. John's.

The evening service was read by Rev. Dr. day morning the venerable Adjutant-Gene- Woodbridge, assisted by Rev. F. M. Baker and Rev. T. G. Dashiell. The venerable Bishop Whelan, of Wheel-Richmond in the Catholic Church, and left pense. this city about twenty-five years since, occupied the pulpit at St. Peter's cathedral at the half-past 10 o'clock services. Clemency was asked by many peti- former relations to them and to the diocese, and speaking in the language of the text said: "It is good for us to be here"; that he might do something towards the fulfilment of any omission there might have been in the discharge of his duty when he formerly spoke from that pulpit, and they to hear on another Sunday the truth as it is in Christ and as it had been spread before them constantly by their learned and faithful bishops and the priests who so steadily directly upon his discourse, he enchained the attention of his hearers until its conclusion. It was intended to heighten the faith of the Catholic in his church and the founda tion upon which it rested, immutable and enduring as they were. He called upon his hearers to admire the divine origin of the Church—the divine authority of its government and teaching-which he contrasted with those of other churches, which were directed by human opinion and which had filled the world with schism and discord. Exhorting them to faith and fidelity to the truth as in Jesus, and to their heaven-ordained Church, which for 1,800 years had in no sense changed, he concluded tendering his devout aspirations for their temporal and spiritual welfare.

The evening services incidental to the Lenten season were held at 7:30, at which there was a large attendance. Bishop Gibbons preached an admirable discourse on "The Transmission of the Primacy of St. of the Supply Committee for the Relief of Peter to the Bishop (or Pope) of Rome," the delivery of which occupied nearly an hour. Eq., in the chair, the following report from He gave many very interesting historical facts in connection with his subject, begin ning with the first successor of St. Peter and concluding with the present Pontiff Pius IX. The series of discourses which commenced last Sunday night a week at the cathedral will be continued each Sunday night by the Bishop. They are of a highly interesting and instructive character, and are attracting many persons of all denominations.

Charles Dickens's "Old Curiosity Shop' was well calculated to attract a fashionable audience when presented by Miss Putnam and her company. She appeared in her remarkable dual characterization of "Little Nell" and "The Marchioness," which characters she sustained with a wonderful degree of ease and grace. It was charming to see her and to enjoy her quick perception and fine acting. The new song, "Grandpa, bless poor Nell," which, by the way, was written expressly for her, was sung with great fervor and sweetness, and brought lown the house.

But it is neecless to puff so charming an actress as Miss Putnam.

Mr. Flint Kennicott, who supported Miss Katie and assumed the character of Quilpand, indeed, it is a most difficult one to play correctly-was thoroughly appreciated and was frequently complimented during the evening. To-night the Old Curiosity Shop will be repeated, and of course there will be another crowded house.

Dick Swiveller (Mr. Edwin Browne) is an actor of decided talent, and came out with flying colors. He played with great ease. and will become a favorite here. The rest of the company did well. Seats may still be secured at Ambold's Musical Exchange.

THE MINSTRELS AT ASSEMBLY HALL .-- The San Francisco minstrels, amongst whom is the great male soprano Ricardo, will commence an engagement of four nights at Assembly Hall to-morrow night. This is to be the best minstrel troupe extant. One of the Norfolk papers has the following notice of this troupe: "This popular combination of first-class talent closed a brief season at our operahouse last night, on which occasion they were greeted with a full house. The three principal artists, Messrs. Birch, Wambold, and Backus, have enjoyed a long and successful career upon the stage, during which time they have gained a national reputation as well merited as it is enviable, and they now rank among the foremost of their profession in this country. It is but natural to suppose that persons of their experience and acknowledged ability should select for their support as good talent as can be procured, and the entertainments they have given here fully justify us in making the assertion that the entire company is composed of first-class

The Trees of Richmond.

"Richmond is full of trees, yet it is rare

[For the Dispatch.]

to find one sound and healthy." Exactly. And why are there not more sound and realthy specimens presented to our view? It is simply this: In the first place, threefourths of the trees are introduced from the neighboring woods; secondly; they are generally taken up and planted by inexperienced persons; and then follow other drawbacks spoken of by "Tuckahoe." Examine the tree in the forest before it is taken up and shipped to its destination; see how luxuriantly it grows; its roots, running just under the surface (very seldom one extending above eight or ten inches downward), are very fibrous, and consequently eagerly catch hold of and are fed by the rich leaf-soil which has been decaying and enriching itself year by year, perhaps for ages. Frequently it is removed very carelessly, the roots being cut with the spade circularly around the stem at an area of not more than eight or nine nches. The tree is then brought to town, and in some instances lies over till a customer is procured, during which time it gets dry, is exposed to the weather-perhaps frost or snow. It is then inserted in, perhaps, clay, ashes, or, at best, common soilvery inferior to that in which it was raised the hole being made just large enough to furnish sufficient soil to bide the roots from view. It is then left to the mercies of other attacks usually met with in a city. Now, tion? The cost of the tree to the purchaser would probably be $1 or $1.50. To avoid this disappointment citizens would do well to abandon this custom of getting large trees to form a shade right away, as I have frequently heard remarked, which idea is fondly cherished but seldom realized. They should purchase trees at a nursery which are grown and pruned to suit the city wear and tear, and have them planted by some experienced workman, who, knowing his business, would open a hole say three feet long, two feet wide, and two feet deep, and if the soil was not fit according to his judgment he would obtain other soil and plant the tree and warrant it to grow. All as the other system, with better satisfaction. Then we would have in our city good and REAL ESTATE SALES .- The following sales ornamental specimens of sound and healthy
